REPORT.

TO THE QUEEN'S MOST EXCELLENT MAJESTY.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR GRACIOUS MAJESTY,

1. We, the Commissioners of Charitable Donations and Bequests for Ireland, appointed under an Act passed in the 7th and 8th years of your Majesty's reign, entitled "An Act for the more effectual Application of Charitable Donations and Bequests in Ireland," humbly beg leave to submit to your Majesty this our Thirtieth Annual Report.

2. Since the date of our last Report 30 meetings have been summoned for the despatch of business; of those 25 were effective, and 5 failed for want of the number required to form the necessary quorum. The change of the law in 1871, by which the quorum was reduced from five to three, continues to be attended with excellent results, and enables us to transact a much larger amount of business.

3. Since the date of our last Report, besides providing for the regular issue of the sums payable to the Charities under our control, we have, at our meetings, made 251 orders for the protection or regulation of Charities in the various cases brought before us.

4. We have instituted several legal proceedings, and transacted business involving questions of a legal character; and the portion of our Solicitor's costs for the past year not otherwise recoverable, and which we have to call on the Treasury to discharge out of the Parliamentary Grant, amounts to £35 7s. 7d.

5. In our last Report we stated that the Committee appointed by your Majesty's Government to inquire into the working of the various Civil Service Departments in Ireland, had visited our office and suggested certain changes in the working details. These recommendations have been for the most part adopted by us and carried into effect.

6. We have had the detailed accounts of the several charities under our administration printed in such a form as will materially diminish the labour expended in the preparation of the copy which we annually lodge with the Master in Chancery for examination and audit, and make the audit itself more rapid and correct. The accounts for the two years ending severally December 31st, 1873, and December 31st, 1874, have, in conformity with the 20th section of the Act 7 and 8 Vic., cap. 97, been duly audited and declared in this improved form.

7. We have altered the mode of making payments to the different parties to whom we remit money for the various charities throughout Ireland in which we hold funds. We find the alteration conduces to greater simplicity and economy of labour in this office, and we expect that it will be attended with greater security of transmission and convenience to those who receive it.

8. The business of our department during the past year has been heavy and important. There is scarcely a branch of the jurisdiction conferred on us by the statutes of 1867 and 1871 that we have not been called upon in one form or other to exercise. Trustees of charity funds and managers of charitable institutions have sought protection and indemnity by resorting to us for advice. We have validated compromises of charity claims in a manner satisfactory and beneficial to the various charities concerned, and have thus avoided diminishing their incomes by the costs of legal proceedings. We have enabled trustees of charity property to grant long leases at largely increased rents, as well as to effect sales beneficial to the charities; and we have, within the limits of our jurisdiction, framed schemes of expro application, taking care in every case to keep in view the intentions of the testator, and by the amplest publication of our proposed schemes to afford opportunities to all parties interested to make objections or offer suggestions. In cases beyond the limits of our own jurisdiction, we have made application to the Court of Chancery, taking care in those cases also that ample publicity should be secured, both by notices in the locality and by advertisements in newspapers.

9. As a public Body charged with the duty of protecting the interests of Charities, our attention was called to a class of cases in which on every occasion on which the appointment of new trustees became necessary applications were made to the Court of Chancery for the purpose. In one of these cases we intervened by presenting a petition to the Court, praying that in future the Accountant-General might be at liberty to pay the dividends direct to us. We obtained an order to that effect, and it is probable that in similar cases we shall be able to relieve trustees from the burthen of useless costs.

10. By the joint operation of the 9th section of the Act of 1867 and the 12th section of the Act of 1871, facilities are afforded to the trustees of charity funds to free themselves from future responsibility by placing the funds under our guardianship and custody. For this purpose our consent to accept the fund is previously required, but out of the large number of applications which have been made to us, in one or two instances only, and those of a special and exceptional character, have we withheld that consent; and the result has been that sums varying in amount, and composed not only of cash, but of Government stock, and stocks and shares in public companies, have, since 1867, been transferred to us, the details of which will be found in the third Schedule to this Report.

11. We would particularly advert to the relief given by the 12th section of the Act of 1871, to persons having money for charitable purposes in their hands, but by reason of various difficulties unable to ascertain the party competent to give them a legal discharge. With our consent these sums can be paid over to us, and a certificate of payment under our corporate seal releases the trustee from all future responsibility. During the past year several persons have availed themselves of the facilities thus afforded them, and were it not for this provision of the Statute, no other course would have been open to them but to lodge the money in the Court of Chancery under the Trustee Relief Act, at expense to the fund.

12. The amendments and improvements introduced into the law of Charities in Ireland by the two Acts to which we have referred, form a code, which has operated in the most beneficial manner for the protection of charity property, nor is there any one of the provisions of those Acts more important than that which casts upon us the duty of requiring the publication of Charitable Bequests. A compliance with the requirements of the Act in this respect we insist upon, as a general rule, as we also do of the provision which requires the newspapers to be forwarded to our office for the purpose of being recorded. We have now 1,920 of these advertisements registered in our books.

13. Little less important is the discretion conferred upon us of exempting executors from the obligation of publishing under special circumstances. We have exercised this discretion in 83 cases, and in all these the sums bequeathed were so small in amount, that the publication of them in the newspapers would have been attended with disproportionate expense. We have almost invariably annexed to exemption the condition that the amount of the bequest should be paid, and that vouchers proving the fact of payment should be exhibited for the inspection of our Secretaries. We have thus secured payment without any cost or deduction of upwards of £1,500 in various small sums, while, from the passing of the Act of 1871 down to the present time, we have given exemption in 290 cases, and have secured payments of small sums amounting in the aggregate to about £3,820.

14. The total amount of the trust funds which were under our care and control in cash, and vested in Government and other securities on the 31st December last, as well as the annual amount of rents and annuities under our guardianship, is set forth in the second Schedule.

All which we submit as our Report to your Most Excellent Majesty, and in testimony thereof have caused our corporate seal to be hereto affixed, this 7th day of July, 1875.
